

Abstract

The extent of binding of a moiety, such as a biomolecule, to a surface, where the local environment at the surface has a pH or surface potential which is altered upon binding of the moiety, is determined by stably incorporating at the surface a probe which contains a pH- or 5 potential-sensitive fluorophore.

100 90 80 70 60 50 40 30 20 10